

Disclosure on Collaboration with Industry

Physicians and industry have maintained a strong and collaborative relationship, working together to develop new and improved technologies, techniques and devices. These interactions result in innovative and improved technologies which enhance patient care

Some physicians at The Longstreet Clinic, P.C., have relationships with industry in the form of consulting or royalty agreements. Royalty agreements occur when the surgeon develops a new and unique implant, instrument, or technique. Consulting agreements usually involve education of physicians in new techniques or advising companies. These agreements result in payments to the physicians based on the amount of work done.

At The Longstreet Clinic, our doctors are committed to the highest ethical and patient care standards. If you have additional questions, we encourage you to ask your doctor more about his or her relationship with industry.